Luncheon at State Park Inaugural of Kable Celebration

Mount Morris Publishing House Host to Newsmen of Area Friday

Representatives of newspapers of Dixon, Oregon, Rochelle, Lanark, Rockford and Freeport were guests of the Kable Co., of Mt. Morris at a noon luncheon at the White Pines State park Friday noon, the occasion being arranged as a preliminary to the 50th anniversary of the Kable Co. Milo D. Zimmerman, secretary, welcomed the guests and acted as toastmaster at a brief program which followed. The anniversary celebration will start with an open house at the spacious plant at Mt. Morris on August 26 and continue through the 27th, when the public is invited to visit the plant.

Harry G. Kable, president of the company, reviewed the beginnings, progress through three years and conditions today in the first talk. He dwelt on the early history of publicans in Mt. Morris, starting with the publication of the first newspaper, the Rock River Register, which came from the press Jan. 1, 1842. In 1850 the Mt. Morris Gazette published its first issue, and numerous smaller publications with little or no consideration for local news items came and went. From 1860 to 1876 Mt. Morris was without a newspaper and the Mt. Morris Independent was then published, changing hands the following year due to financial failure and the present weekly, the Mt. Morris Index came into being 58 years ago and is still being published.

Firm's Founding Recalled

President Kable told of the founding of the present Kable Bros. Co. by himself and his twin brother, Harvey J. Kable now deceased, 50 years ago. The plant now is on of the largest publishing houses in the country operating in a modern plant with 210,000 square feet of floor space, the buildings covering an area of five acres. It employs 750 men and 150 women and has an annual paper consumption oof 30,000,000 pounds with 1,400,000 pounds of ink used. An annual composition output of 72,000 pages and 200,000,00 copies are printed annually.

The company has an annual payroll of $3,500,000 or $70,000 weekly; the current annual volume rate is $8,500,000. There are 400 stock

Britain Leads in Recovery Receipts

Paris, Aug. 14—(AP)—Britain got the biggest portion of American aid during the first four months of operation of the European recovery program, but France was close behind.

Since April 3, when the program began, Britain has received $246,600,000 worth of aid. France got $240,600,000 worth and Italy was third with $117,200,000.

The total figure of $882,400,000 had been previously announced in Europe.

An American spokesman said this is the first disclosure of allocations approved for specific countries.

More than one-fifth of Britain's supplies, or $56,500,000 worth, was wheat. Another $14,800,000 worth went for wheat flour.

Other leading products Britain drew were $44,000,000 worth of petroleum products, $32,500,000 in non-ferrous metals and $22,700,000 worth of lumber.

France drew $34,000,000 worth of wheat, $12,100,000 worth of wheat flour and $100,000,000 mixed allotment of coal, cotton and petroleum.

Progressive Party Speakers Have Day at Big State Fair

Investigation of Communistic Activities in Nation Assailed

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 14—(AP)—Senator Glen Taylor of Idaho, Progressive nominee for vice-president, said today that Soviet Russia "is in no position to threaten or fight anybody" and its citizens are not "anxious to give their lives to spread Communism over the world."

Taylor was principal speaker at an Illinois State Fair campaign rally for the Wallace-Taylor ticket. He joined the Illinois Progressive nominees for governor and U. S. senator in denouncing their Republican and Democratic rivals as "red baiters, militarists and monopolists."

Grant W. Oakes, CIO leader and the Progressive choice for governor called for immediate state laws to cut high prices and stop renter evictions.

Probe of Reds Assailed

Curtis MacDougall, Northwestern University journalism professor, who is the Progressive nominee for the Illinois seat now held by Republican C. Wayland Brooks, assailed congressional investigation of Communist activities in this country.

Their speeches were prepared for delivery in front of the fairgrounds grandstand during a political program including ballad singers, square dancers and musicians headed by a Chicago disk jockey as master of ceremonies.

Taylor said "the two old parties have tried to smear the new Progressive party as Red because we have firmly insisted that peace with Russia is absolutely necessary and possible."

He declared that "recent examples of Soviet citizens seeking to remain in the United States makes the contentions of some people that the Russian masses are anxious to give their lives to spread Communism over the world seem to be a slight exaggeration, at least."

Furthermore, he said, "the independence displayed by the Yugo-Slavs" in Marshal Tito's break with the Kremlin "can and may happen with regard to other of the so-called dominated countries" behind the iron curtain.

"Armament Unnecessary"

He said the Soviets "desperately crave peace" and "the chinks in the Russian armor that have recently appeared" show that American armament plans are unnecessary.

Navy Plans Visit to India and Parkistan

Washington, Aug. 14—(AP)—Three Navy vessels are en route to India and Pakistan for the first goodwill visit since those countries acquired dominion status, the Navy announced today.

Admiral Richard L. Conolly, commander in chief of U. S. Naval forces in the eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean, will fly from London to Karachi Tuesday to direct the 12-day visit.

Conolly will use the heavy cruiser Toledo as his flagship. Rear Admiral Roscoe F. Good, commander of cruiser division three, also will be aboard.

Other ships on the cruise are the destroyers Chevalier and Higbee. They are due in Karachi August 18 and will remain there until August 23 before proceeding to Bombay for a five-day stay—from August 25 to August 30.

En route from the western Pacific to the Indian ocean the vessels visited Singapore, August 6 to 7 and Trincomalee, Ceylon, August 12 to 13.

Third Anniversary of Japs' Surrender Finds War Still On

DeWitt MacKenzie Has Warning Message for Democracy's People

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Three years ago today Japan surrendered unconditionally to the allies and Japanese War Minister Korechika Anami committed suicide in accordance with the oriental code that only death can wipe out the dishonor of having failed the Mikado in an emergency.

Allied victory celebrations swept around a world which longed for peace. Even the defeated, shell-shocked nations were glad that the last great bomb had exploded and that they would have time to bind their wounds. The most awful conflict that men ever known was over or so most thought. There would, of course, be the usual hard times which follow every war, but there would be a quick recovery, and our new United Nations would guide us into an era of tranquility and good will.

That's what we thought only three years ago. Now we know that the peace we saw was only a mirage. We realize unless we have lost our wits altogether that the war against the axis was transformed into the Bolshevist world revolution for the spread of Communism. It was done as quietly and smoothly as the shifting of your auto gears—so smoothly that only now are the democracies awakening to a realization that they are engaged in a fresh war which is far more dangerous than anything the evil mind of Hitler conjured up.

Moscow Laid Ground Work

Moscow laid the groundwork for this war by signing the non-aggression pact which enabled Hitler to launch his attack on Poland. As this column recorded long ago, objective observers in Europe at that time were quite aware that Russia anticipated another world war, and figured on taking advantage of it for the spread of Communism. What the Muscovites couldn't foresee was that they would be caught in the early phases of the conflict and so hurt that they couldn't take full advantage of the outside world's weaknesses.

Those are facts which are almost unbelievable to the charitable western mind. They are facts which all of us dislike to admit. But the sooner we recognize the cold truth that Bolshevism is out to bring us under its totalitarian rule, the better off we shall be.

Do we need to have this rammed down our throats by such incidents as the escape of the two

Good Reason

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 14—(AP)—As a horseshoe pitcher, Governor Green admits he's not so hot.

The governor took time out at the State Fair yesterday to try his hand at the sport. He even got some pointers from Earl Bomke, the state champion, but the results were discouraging.

Green managed to hit the stake only once in four tries while Bomke was clanging on three straight ringers.

The governor had a reason for his poor showing:

"I haven't pitched horseshoes since I was a kid".

Dixiecrats Threat To Truman Chances Loses Seriousness

Washington, Aug. 14—(AP)—The southern civil rights revolt appeared today to be tapering off slightly as a serious threat to President Truman's election chances.

Developments in Texas and Arkansas this week have made some administration lieutenants more optimistic than ever that Truman may grab every Dixie electoral vote, as Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath has predicted repeatedly.

Want Texas Delegates

The States' Rights ticket—headed by Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and his running mate Gov. Fielding Wright of Mississippi—is sure of a place on the ballot in South Carolina, Alabama and Mississippi.

But Dixiecrats also want a crack at Texas' 23 electoral votes, the largest bloc in the south.

Strategists have told Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the GOP presidential nominee, he has a chance to carry some Dixie states and he may therefore drop below the Mason and Dixon line for some speech-making. His running mate, Gov. Earl Warren of California, is almost certain to do so.

McGrath already has said Truman is thinking about campaigning in the south. His No. 2 man, Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, knows the ground well and can be expected to get in some political licks there.

Find New Cause For Hay-Fever

Newark, N. J., Aug. 14—(AP)—Hay fever victims have found another place to lay the blame for their suffering.

This time it's the famed blizzard of gorun and ensuing snows, which helped make things tough for the sneezers and sniffers, the Jersey Allergy society said yesterday.

The society explained that that arch-villain, ragweed pollen, will be worse than usual this year because last winter's heavy snows left the soil "all too fertile" for the pollinating weed.

Dr. Frank L. Rosen of Newark, publication chairman of the society, described a few "do's and don'ts" by which a person sensitive to the pollen may minimize its effects.

Don'ts.

Violent emotion, alcoholic or iced drinks, the country wide-open bedroom windows at night, sudden changes of temperatures, use of paints or insecticides, eating of foods which experience has shown will cause allergic reactions.

Do's:

Stay on the jam, particularly if you live in the suburbs and work in the city.

And hope that it doesn't snow as much next winter.

Chicken Farmer Tells How He Hid Russian Teacher

Describes Nine Days of Hiding on Farm in New Jersey

Freehold, N. J., Aug. 14—(AP)—An elderly chicken farmer who admits he once was a Russian revolutionary told today how he hid a Soviet school teacher and his family for nine days.

Harry Schibanoff, a giant of a man in his middle 60's, told a Philadelphia Evening Bulletin reporter that he knew of efforts to save two Russian teachers, Michael I. Samarine and Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina—from being returned to the Soviet Union.

The information, Schibanoff said, came from Countess Alexandra Tolstoy who operates a White Russian refuge in New York state.

The burly, big-handed farmer who has lived in the U. S. since 1910, said the countess feared one of the two teachers might not be sincere in fighting Soviet authority.

"She told me they were afraid to put the two together for fear one or the other might be a (Russian) spy," Reporter Ellen Taussig quoted Schibanoff as saying.

Promised to Help

"I promised I would do anything I could to help her in her work," the reporter's story continued.

"On July 29, I had a call from her. She said she would like to see me on one case and could I come to New York. I went to the Tolstoy foundation headquarters in New York the next day.

"The countess explained the whole story about Samarine and his family. She told me at that time that Mrs. Kosenkina was in her office and that Samarine had come to her office, too.

"Samarine had told the countess that he was afraid to go back to Russia because of the death or severe punishment which would await him. He wanted to stay in America."

Schibanoff said he arranged to meet Samarine in a New York City cafeteria. Here, he said, the two discussed the teacher's future.

"He looked at me with tears in his eyes and said: 'Mr. Schibanoff, if I can't stay here I won't go to Russia. I will kill myself and my family.'"

Used No Force

The farmer said he was impressed. He continued:

"I went back to the foundation and talked with the Countess Alexandra. We discussed the question and I said I would take the Samarines to Freehold. It was pretty late when I left for home. I did some chores around the farm and at 9 o'clock I left for New York City in my truck alone.

"There was no place to stop at Samarine's home. So I parked a block away and I went to his house. We started to prepare furniture and trunks. Then I sat and waited.

"About midnight or later I brought my truck to the front door and we loaded everything on it. Samarine sat on the front seat

National Guards of City to Camp

Co. A, 129th infantry regiment, of Dixon left the Armory this morning at 5:00 o'clock aboard trucks which transported the personnel and equipment to Camp Ellis, where they will join some 9,000 downstate Illinois guardsmen in a large scale military movement expected to be the greatest in the history of Illinois.

Immediately after arrival units began to unpack equipment, establish quarters and unlimber weapons in preparation for some 92 hours of intensive field training activities spread throughout the next 15 days. Range firing will begin Monday morning, and when instruction programs begin thousands of newly recruited citizen-soldiers will get their first taste of military life. Instructed by combat tested officers and non-commissioned officers, recruits will be given the essentials of war-time basic training, including close order drill, familiarization firing of small arms, small unit tactical problems, and the fundamentals of soldiering.

Visitor's day at Camp Ellis, Sunday, Aug. 22, will be honored by the presence of Governor Dwight H. Green, at a formal review and ceremonies which are expected to attract thousands of visitors from all parts of the state.

Truman's Elephant Gun Is Loaded for 2nd Shot at GOP

Washington, Aug. 14—(AP)—President Truman loaded his elephant gun today for a double-barreled blast at Republicans for trampling his budgetary and anti-inflation plans.

He is due to fire the first shot tomorrow night when he releases his mid-year budget review. Some high government officials have predicted a treasury deficit of as much as $2,000,000,000 for the year ending next June 30.

The GOP income tax reduction law which Truman says tied a rocket to prices was expected to get most of the blame for the budget alterations since January, when the president forecast a surplus of $1,800,000,000.

The second blast was scheduled for Monday. Then, the White House reported, Truman will act on the new anti-inflation bill turned out in the last days of the special session of congress.

Originally, the president was expected to complete action yesterday on the measure, which restores the government's power to control some retail and bank credit.

Board Reported Ready

The federal Reserve Board was reported all set to clamp down the new consumer credit rules provided in the GOP bill possibly Tuesday or Wednesday. The would be come effective 30 days later.

Unless Truman vetoes the measure, "easy payment" plans will become less easy on or around September 16. Tentative arrangements call for a one-third down payment on autos, radios and washing machines and a 20 per cent down payment on furniture and rugs.

The time in which complete payment must be made will be held to 15 months, officials predicted. Some merchants have offered two or three year installment plans since the wartime credit control expired last November.

Sales of $50 or less will be exempt, but the old exemption for purchases of more than $2,000 will be changed to cover prices up to $4,000—to match the rising cost of such things as automobiles.

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer meanwhile urged another line of attack on inflation—cut down grain shipments to the Marshall plan countries in the next year.

"It may be time to give some attention to the American housewife", he told a news conference late yesterday.

His remarks had in them the making of an intra-governmental quarrel.

Dennis A. FitzGerald, food director for the Economic Cooperation Administration, told reporters earlier this week that an "appreciable" increase in grain shipments to Europe could be expected as a result of bumper U. S. crop forecasts.

Hubby Hunt Ends; House Hunt Starts

Camden, N. J., Aug. 14—(AP)—Mrs. Annette Newman and the winner of her husband hunting derby were "looking like mad" today for a six or seven room house.

Mrs. Newman figures she'll need a place that large for the six children she'll be taking care of after the wedding Thursday or Friday.

The husband hunting derby began when the 30-year-old Camden divorcee entered a newspaper office and asked if she could advertise for a husband.

The editor listened to her story and then wrote an article in his paper about Mrs. Newman.

She wanted a husband who didn't spend all his time "guzzling beer" and preferably one who was a widower with children.

"I got what I was after," she told a reporter last night. "You have to go after something if you really want it."

The prospective bridegroom is a 30-year-old construction worker from Stratford, N. J. His name is John Taylor and he's tall, handsome and a widower. He has six children ranging from five to 14. The eldest is a stepchild.

"I thought it was all a publicity gag," Taylor said, "but I went to see Ann anyhow."

"Did you change your mind?" a reporter asked.

"She did," Taylor answered.

Subpoena To Testify Before House Group Served in Hospital

Action Gives Mrs. Kosenkina Protection of U. S. Government

New York, Aug. 14—(AP)—Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina, who leaped from the Soviet consulate where she says she was held a prisoner, was served a subpoena today to testify before the house committee on un-American activities.

The subpoena was handed to her in her Roosevelt hospital room by the committee's chief investigator, Robert E. Stripling, who said, when he arrived in New York earlier, the subpoena would place the woman "in protective custody of the United States."

Meanwhile, federal and state law enforcement agencies were assembling information in the case.

PROBE IN RECESS

Washington, Aug. 14—(AP)—The congressional spy probe shifted today to the New York bedside of a Russian teacher who jumped from a third floor window to escape "rescuers" in the Soviet consulate.

Armed with a subpoena, Robert E. Stripling, chief investigatpr for the house un-American activities committee, went by midnight train to New York. There he planned to pin a "property United States congress label"—in the words of Rep. Mundt (R-SD)—on Mrs. Oksana Stepanovna Kosenkina.

The 52-year-old Russian schoolteacher is in Roosevelt hospital recovering from injuries received in her spectacular liberty leap Thursday. Soviet officials had detained her in the consulate after announcing they had "rescued" her from an anti-Communist White Russian group.

She greeted with an emphatic "no" all efforts by Soviet consular officials to have her moved to another hospital.

"You kept me prisoner; you would not let me go," she mommed.

Refused To Sign Paper

The New York Times said it had learned police have a statement from her that Soviet Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin had visited the consulate to get her to sign an affidavit saying she was not being held a prisoner.

She refused, the Times story said, "despite the ambassador's personal promise of future immunity from Soviet punishment. He told her 'everything would be forgotten' if she signed the affidavit."

To back up Mrs. Kosenkin's wish to remain free of Soviet custody, the house committee decided last night to put her in its own custody with a subpoena which, com-

Governor Realizes Cities' Money Need

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 14—(AP)—Mayors of six Illinois cities talked over financial troubles with the governor yesterday. At the meeting, Governor Green told the municipal officials he would "cooperate" in trying to find a solution to their problems.

Illinois Municipal league officials also participated in the meeting.

The mayors of Peoria, Bloomington, DeKalb, Freeport, Evanston and Taylorville talked for an hour with the governor.

A spokesman for the governor said Green expressed the belief that a solution could be found to the cities' money problems.

A. L. Sargent, league executive secretary, said after the conference that the governor "recognizes a need either for state financial aid to cities or for increasing their money-raising powers."

The league's program calling for cities to collect a public utility tax, now levied by the state, and broadening the cities' licensing and taxing powers was discussed at the conference. The cities favor sales tax diversion in the event this program is not granted.

Troops in Japan Are Alerted for Trouble

Tokyo, Aug. 14—(AP)—Occupation forces today were alerted for possible trouble in Tokyo and Yokohama tomorrow on the third anniversary of Japan's surrender.

Japanese have scheduled meetings and parades to observe the anniversary. Koreans will use the same occasion to celebrate the third year of their liberation from Japanese rule.

Court Ruling Sought on Operation in Baby Girl's Hopeless Condition

Chicago, Aug. 14—(AP)—A 22-months-old baby girl played happily today as legal and medical authorities sought to decide whether or not to perform an operation that might give her a chance to live.

The child is Pamela Frances Lamphere. She was born with a rare deformity—her bladder is outside her body—that requires major surgery to correct. Doctors have given the child two to three years to live without the operation.

Her parents, estranged over the question of operation, laid the problem in the lap of Judge Walter R. O'Malley, of suburban Aurora, sitting in superior court.

The father, Fred, 23, a shipping clerk, filed suit to compel the mother, Irene, 21, to agree to the operation.

Said the mother in court:

"I live for my child. I want her as long as I can have her. I'd lose her forever if she were operated on."

Said the father:

"I love her just as much. I want her to have a chance to live."

The father's attorney, Louis Cermak, told the court, "the child has no chance of survival without an operation and one chance in 100 with an operation. There are people living in Chicago who have survived such an operation."

The mother's lawyer, Charles C. Cooley, said, "I understand it is wishful thinking to believe the chance of success would be one in 100. It is nearer one in 1,000. Physicians have advised us against an operation."

Judge O'Malley, saying he could not do anything "without full medical advice," appointed the deans of the medical schools of the Universities of Illinois, Chicago, Northwestern and Loyola to investigate and report to him.

The parents agreed to abide by their decision.

★ WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT
We Need More Christians Like Apostles

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Jesus called twelve men, who beyond all other believers and disciples, were to be closely associated with Him in His ministry. These, who later became known as the Twelve Apostles, apparently gave up every other task, and were the first full-time ministers of the Gospel.

One of them, Judas Iscariot (there was another Judas, a loyal disciple among the twelve), proved a traitor. The other eleven took upon themselves to elect Matthias (Acts 1:26) to take the place of Judas, but Barnabas, who was rejected in the choice, became better known than Matthias.

Of most of the twelve we know little except their names, and uncertain traditions that arose about them in the early history of the church. But concerning a few, Andrew and Peter, James and John, Matthew and Thomas, the details are specific and dramatic. Philip, too, has the distinction, with Andrew, of bringing another —Nathaniel — to Jesus; and this incident inspired the organization of the Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip, having as its purpose the bringing of others into the Christian way.

It is interesting that though we know little about Andrew, we know a great deal about his brother Peter. What a history could be told of great and notable Christians whose introductions into the Christian faith and life came through others little known—some praying mother, some obscure pastor or preacher, some faithful, plodding Sunday School teacher. Tall oaks of distinction and service have grown from little acorns, humbly planted in faith and hope.

It is doubtful whether Matthew, "sitting at the receipt of customs" when he heard the Master's call, and left all to follow Him, had not heard of Jesus before. And the story of the calling of the disciples in the first chapter of the Gospel of John throws some light upon the readiness of the fishermen, James and John, Andrew and Peter, leaving their nets and become fishers of men. They had already heard of Jesus, and they were prepared for the great adventure, though they had little realization of what its real nature and greatness were to be.

Christianity began in witnessing, in those who found, bearing testimony about what they had found and seen. This is the elemental power of every religious movement. Even mass movements depend upon the integrity and activity of the units. The world needs more Christians of the type of Andrew and Philip.

Misconceptions Persist Concerning Veneered Surface

The idea persists that furniture made of solid wood is of better quality than furniture with a veneered surface.

Some people think solid furniture means a higher grade, a higher price and consequently a more durable and beautiful piece. None of these assumptions is true. Both types of construction have their advantages. And obviously, both have their disadvantages if construction is poor.

The need for veneer construction stems from the fact that some woods have many desirable qualities for the manufacture of furniture, but lack such decorative properties as beautiful color, distinctive grain or artistic figure. Then, there are woods that are intrinsically beautiful but structurally too weak to be used for solid frames.

In solid construction, the whole piece, including the exposed surfaces, is of the natural wood. Veneer construction has most of the exposed parts covered with a veneered surface, which is called "plywood."

Advantages

Solid wood may be carved with a greater degree of fineness and artistry than plywood. When worn down by use, it may be refinished by planing down or sanding with coarse sandpaper. It cannot peel off. If solid wood becomes scratched, dented or chipped there's no danger that a different wood will show through. There is less chance of inferior work in solid construction, since the manufacturing processes are less complicated and defects are more obvious. Solid wood need not have an entirely plain effect, for it may be cut to bring out a variety of figurations in the grain, such as swirling designs in mahogany. Solid wood is more adaptable to heavy, massive designs with intricate carving ornamentation.

On the credit side of veneer construction are these points: Furniture with veneered surface is less likely to shrink or swell because the plywood has been almost "dehydrated" by natural and artificial methods of heating and its tendency to absorb or lose moisture is checked. More beautiful patterns are possible with veneers. Plywood has great strength and equalize stress and strain. Beautifully figured wood is more widely available since the veneer sheets are thin and many can be cut from one tree. Also, different patterns are possible when cut from different sections of the tree. Veneer is pliable—it adapts itself to a wide range of both period and modern designs. It can be bent to a curved surface, a serpentine front, etc. Only the finest logs are used, and only the best portions of each log. Beautiful inlay effects comparable to fine solid wood carvings are possible with veneer.

Molded Plywood

The only really new furniture manufacturing technique to come after the war is the process that produces molded plywood.

In the manufacturing of molded plywood, wood veneers are laminated and molded under pressure. One mold alone can make a complete back or the complete seat of a chair or the complete top or legs of a table. In other words, after the veneers have been laid up on the desired thickness, they are put in a mold which simultaneously stamps out the form and permanently laminates or joins the layers of the veneers. In one step an entire shell is completed.

Simple Processes Required

The only other processes required are joining of parts and very simple finishing. In some cases the finishing is simple because the basic finish is integral. All wood parts have been treated with a resinous impregnation, finishes are permanent, practically weatherproof. The natural graining shows clearly, surfaces are hardened to resist scratches or dents, and—in cases where color is wanted—brilliant dyes stain the wood deeply and permanently without interfering with its natural texture.

The most common veneers today are birch, ash, elm and walnut. However, almost any wood may be used, limited only by cost and availability.

PROTECTS KITCHEN WALL

A piece of asbestos cement board applied to a wall area directly behind and above a kitchen range will protect the area from discoloration. The board can either be nailed or applied with a recommended adhesive cement. Moisture-resistant and fireproof, it has a smooth surface which is easy to wash.

Nantucket 'Splatter' Floors Used in Modern Homes

"Nantucket splatter," a floor-finishing technique as old as the New England in which it originated, is becoming popular for modern homes because it provides an attractive surface for inexpensive floor boards.

The splatter finish consists of paint spots, about the size of a nickel or a dime, sprinkled on a contrasting background. It is particularly well suited for rumpus rooms, children's play rooms and informal living rooms.

To splatter a floor, first paint it a solid color. After this paint has dried, apply a second coat over one section, leaving an adjacent section dry enough to stand on while working. Start splattering on the second coat after it has dried until it is "tacky."

Splatter spots can be any number of colors, which should contrast with the background. If two or more colors are used, apply them one at a time.

Splattering is done with a very coarse brush or a long-handled whisk broom. Dip the brush into the paint, but do not allow the brush to pick up so much paint that it drips. Strike the handle of the brush sharply against a stick held about a foot above the floor.

It is necessary to shield the walls from the splattering paint. This can be done by placing pieces of cardboard against the baseboards. After the paint dries, wax the floor.

New City Is Being Built Near Chicago

A new city is being carved out of raw acreage 27 miles south of the Chicago Loop. It is Chicago's largest housing endeavor and is one of the few attempts of private enterprise to build a complete, satellite city.

Its creators, the American Community Builders, Inc., have taken all the essentials for an ideal community and have pieced them together like a jigsaw puzzle. Park Forest, as the town will be temporarily called, represents the perfect integration of homes, neighborhoods, commercial sections, schools, parks, recreational facilities, industry — everything designed for ideal family living in spacious beauty, comfort and safety.

Although priority is being given to veterans with families in the initial rental section now being built, the entire development is being projected on a five-year basis and an estimated population of about 30,000 persons, including many non-veterans.

Next month when the first families move into the 3,010-unit rental section, we will be witnessing the birth of a city. A year later when the rental section will be completely occupied and work on homes for sale will have begun, we will have watched a city grow and, we feel sure, prosper.

Park Forest, with its dedication to the American way of life, is a credit to the dynamic, imaginative kind of private enterprise that has distinguished the American capitalistic system at its best. Park Forest sets new standards that are a challenge to private builders who most important of all—now know that some dreams can come true!

Fifty-three per cent of the farms of the United States now have electrical service.

First Aid to Ailing Homes--

By W. WADSWORTH WOOD

Outdoor Furniture

When one was able to buy a complete set of lawn furniture, or a set of good-looking porch furniture for about $3.95, knocked down and ready to assemble, no one worried about the outdoor furniture. But with the prices prevailing today it is a different matter. The old price of $2.95 covered two armchairs, a double seat and a small table. Today, you can get an arm chair for $3.95 and nothing else.

The most satisfactory type of lawn furniture is built out of plain 7/8 in. x 3 in. finishing strip. All that the homeowner needs is the measurements covering the height of the seat, the height of the back, and the width of the seat. These can be made to suit individual taste, and the chair can be rapidly cut and nailed together by following the style of the illustration shown here.

The job consists of cutting two uprights and nailing two long sloping pieces to them so as to form a carriage. Three pieces of the desired width form the seat. The back is assembled separately and then set in place so as to measure for the arms, which will extend from the top of the uprights to the middle cross-piece of the back.

Double seats are made by extending the width of the armchair to the desired length. If it is over 36-in. an additional leg and brace should be set in.

The nailing should be done with 1¾-inch galvanized flat-head nails. The finished chair or seat should receive a coat of priming paint and one heavy coat of outside paint.

There are actually a score of various designs and patterns which can be used, but we advise this simple job as the initial effort. After one unit has been made and found satisfactory, you can try anything you please.

Decorator Tricks Enhance Charm of Pictures in Room

Use a professional decorator's tricks to make imaginative arrangements of pictures if you want to employ one of the least expensive devices for enhancing the charm of a room.

Ready to show you how is Alan Conway, swank New York interior decorator whose clever wall treatments distinguish his services to a list of important clients.

Needn't Own Masterpieces

You needn't own costly masterpieces to achieve dramatic effects, says Conway. Inexpensive prints can do just as well, sometimes better, he says. Even dull black and white prints salvaged from an attic give a high-styled sparkle to a room when matted on bright-colored paper, simply framed and hung in compact groups.

In fact, your "picture" may be a decorative arrangement of plants in an unusual container. Case in point is Conway's trick of cutting an old-fashioned scrolled brass bowl in half and mounting it on the wall as gleaming background for ivy plants inside the two containers.

Instead of spotting small or unrelated pictures over your walls, bring the assortment together in one dramatic composition, he advises. Hang the group so the eye can move across it in a straight line. Place tops of frames in line with the tops of your doorway for a good rule-of-thumb.

Some Hanging Hints

When you are hanging one large picture or grouping several smaller ones over a table or couch the outer edges of the frames should not extend beyond the furniture, Conway cautions if you want well-balanced arrangement.

To give a simple frame for a large picture more self-importance, add to the inside border of the wood a raised strip of molding pierced with holes bored close together. Light filtering through the openwork will cast interesting shadows and give the illusion of depth to the flat surface.

Maybe you have several prints or same-size photographs but no frames. Then Conway's suggestion is to use marbelized paper borders, setting off the display with a fake drapery swag, also of marbelized wallpaper.

I Saw It In the Telegraph

Good Furniture Can Be Picked by Marks

When buying furniture, check those earmarks of quality which you can see for yourself.

Carvings should be clean and smooth. Plywood surfaces should be smooth and flat. Stand so the light strikes a table top at an angle and look for any waviness or depressions.

Note whether drawer interiors have clean, dovetail or lock joint construction and are smoothly finished. Turn up chairs to see if the frame is well joined, with tight fitting, glued and screwed corner blocks. Look for a finish that really reveals and enhances the wood.

Beware high pressure selling methods, undue emphasis on easy credit terms. Remember that it is better to buy a few good pieces, adding others as you can, than to buy many inferior pieces from which you can anticipate little in service or satisfaction.

Okay Allocation of Steel for All-Metal House Experiment

Washington—Secretary of Commerce Charles W. Sawyer today approved an experimental allocation of steel to six manufacturers of all-metal houses.

The priority under the voluntary allocation program calls for 59,000 tons of steel, enough for about 8,500 metal houses.

Sawyer noted that some building industry witnesses before a house committee charged last spring that the new-type dwellings would "waste" scarce steel needed for plumbing and other fixtures in conventional homes.

Opponents of the project also told the house group that the government was "just trying to protect its investment" in the Lustron corporation, one of the all-metal home manufacturers, which was launched with the help of a reconstruction finance corporation loan.

In reply, Sawyer said he approved the allocation to determine whether factory-built homes "furnish an answer to the demand for low-cost housing."

Whether the companies get more steel in the future, he said, will depend on how effectively they prove the utility of their product.

He said the fact that the government loaned money to the Lustron corporation did not "in any way effect" his decision.

Lustron expects to market a five-room enameled metal house which will sell for about $8,000 on the eastern seaboard.

DIXON MEN BUILD THEIR OWN CABIN CRUISER

Stewart (left) and Robinson check the boat's instrument panel before a trip on Rock river. The boat's name was derived from a combination of the first names of their wives, who assisted them in planning the interior finish and accomodations of the craft.

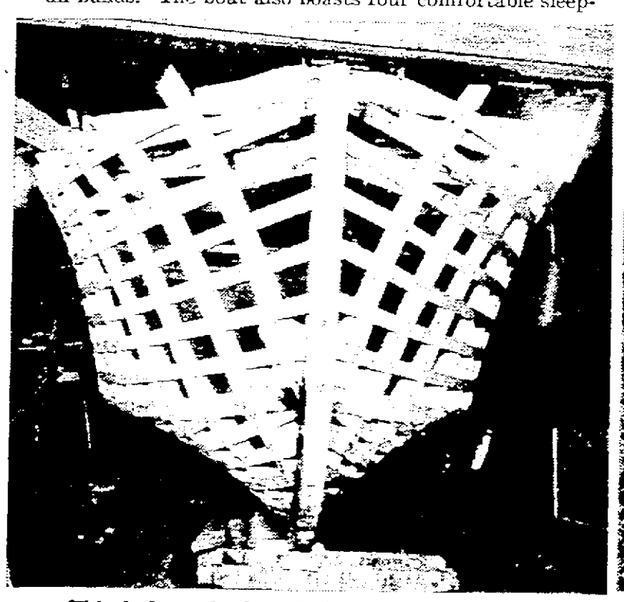

Mrs. Robinson (seated) and Mrs. Stewart relax in the boat's kitchenette, which is furnished with an alcohol stove, cabinets, sink and cooking utensils. Cabin quarters are spacious. Stewart and Robinson estimate construction of the boat required 1,900 working hours.

The Robinsons (left) and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart and their two children, Jimmy and Judy, offer visible proof that there is ample room aboard the cruiser for all hands. The boat also boasts four comfortable sleeping bunks. It is powered by a Ford V 8 motor, has a speed rating of 20 m. p. h. Twenty-five feet in length, it is eight feet, seven inches wide and has a draft of approximately 30 inches.

Here is the Marthamae as she appears on Rock river now, foaming water churning in her wake. The two families are now beginning to reap benefits from the long hours the men spent in constructing their pleasure craft.

This is how the boat looked at an early stage of construction. Framework is of white oak lumber. The men selected the trees, which were felled, and the lumber was seasoned. The framework is covered with cypress.

Myrna Dennis, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Berthal Dennis, Ashton, with her 4-H project, a six months old Guernsey calf which took first prize in her class at the Farm Bureau picnic and 4-H exhibitin Amboy Thursday. The calf is a product of artificial insemination.

This mare, "Katherine Pipper", which appeared in the motion picture "Green Grass of Wyoming", is owned by a former Dixon resident, Fred Piper, now a resident of Morrison. In the sulky is his son, Bill, 14. Piper's daughters, Jackie and Blanche, attended Dixon high school, and his son, Harold, lives east of Dixon.

Grand champion fat steer was the entry of Herman Alber, route 1, Dixon, a member of the Palmyra Hill Billies 4-H club, shown here with his steer, purebred shorthorn yearling which he raised from a two-months-old calf. Alber is a Dixon high school student.

Glen Ransom, route 2, Dixon had the winning entry in the winner rate of gain contest at the exhibit. His calf gained 2.07 pounds per day, a total of 600 pounds in 290 days. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ransom, he is a Dixon high school student and member of Nelson Knockouts 4-H club.

Thought for Today

I opened to my beloved, but my beloved had withdrawn himself, and was gone: my soul failed when he spake: I sought him, but I could not find him; I called him, but he gave me no answer. -Song of Solomon 5:6.

No prayer is lost. Praying breath was never spent in vain. Thereis no such thing as prayer unanswered or unnoticed by God, and some things that we count refusals or denials are simply delays.—H. Bonar.

Congress Session

Several political writers have been going over the tally sheets of the special session of Congress and, using the point system, have tried to figure out who won the battle. Some give it to Mr. Truman on a close decision, while others are willing to call it a draw.

This is not the usual way of appraising the results of an emergency session, called ostensibly to cope with emergency problems. But of course the whole affair was a product of political matchmaking.

On that basis, then, we'll go along with such an approach and also call it a draw. The session was foredoomed to be a political scuffle. Neither participant could hope to come out of it with his reputation greatly enhanced. And certainly the customers didn't get their money's worth.

Yet there were things said and done in that special session that were of some value in a backhanded sort of way. They served to point up again the grievous flaws of some congresional rules and cistoms, and to re-emphasize the urgent need for changing them.

One thing, of couree, was the Senate filibuster on civil rights There was nothing new about this; just another example of how one man or a few men can defeat any Senate bill by paralyzing the action of both parties.

Then there were the warm words between Republican Senators McCarthy and Tobey over the housing bill. Mr. McCarthy said, "I have the authority to say that the House leaders will not take public housing or slum clearance."

"Who is this House leadership?" Mr. Tobey wanted to know. "Is it Jesse Wolcott? Is it Joe Martin?" Senator McCarthy answered that "Wolcott and I think he speaks for the leadership—told me they just would not take public housing."

It is bad form for congressmen to attack (or for that matter even mention) their colleagues by name in debate. Mr. Tobey's breach of etiquette can probably be ascribed to his impatience with the abnormal power that a few congressional leaders and committee heads enjoy.

This power, too, amounts to a filibuster. It often permits a handful to decide what the House or Senate "will take," without those bodies having anything to say about it. A serious added complication is the practice of parceling out committee chairmanships purely on the basis of seniority.

Thus we find today that young, progressive Republican members, who seem to reflect the spirit of the times and the people better than their seniors, are all but handcuffed by stubborn individualists who show many symptoms of hardening of the mental arteries, yet who are sure that their stand-pat, die-hard views are right and immune to challenge.

The Democrats had the same trouble from a powerful administration to overcome it. Unless the rules and customs are changed, the next President—whoever he is—and the next Congress will have a hard time translating any popular demand for progresive action into deeds.

WASHINGTON AS SEEN BY EDSON

Washington — (NEA) — Thirteen cases of political pressure or intimidation against school, college and university teachers who have taken an active part in support of Henry Wallace's Progressive Party are now on record. In addition to which two preachers have lost their pulpits for showing an interest in the third party movement.

All such cases so far reported have been from the Eastern part of the United States, but 10 have been in the North, as against only five in the South. Aside from the Constitutional "freedom of speech" guarantees involved, these cases have raised again the old controversy over academic freedom—allowing teachers and professors complete freedom of thought, without censorship from higher authorities.

This year's cases of faculty intimidation are by no means confined to backwoods institutions. Columbia University, Northwestern, Williams College, Oglethorpe and University of Georgia are among the tonier institutions of learning involved.

At Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., 25 professors have been forced to withdraw from active work for the Wallace movement. Prof. Curtiss MacDougall, third party candidate for U. S. senator from Illinois, has defied this order by refusing to withdraw his candidacy, and he is still hanging onto his academic job.

• • •

Firing of Prof. Frederick L. Schuman was first demanded by Williams College alumni after he had written a critical review of ex-Secretary of State James F. Byrnes' book, "Speaking Friendly." Schuman refused to quit, however, and at the third party convention in Philadelphia, he played an active part in drafting the Progressive platform.

Columbia University Teachers' College dropped Prof. Clyde Miller from its faculty after his name had appeared on a list of some 700 members of the National Committee for Wallace.

Prof. James Barfoot was fired from an assistant professor at University of Georgia after he was nominated as third party candidate for governor in the peach tree state. At Oglethorpe University, Prof. Don West was dropped for Progressive Party activities, but he was later reinstated for the remainder of the term.

A similar temporary reinstatement has been reported at Methodist College, Evansville, Ind. Several days after he had presided at a political rally where Henry Wallace spoke, Dr. George Parker was asked to resign his post as an instructor in Bible and philosophy. After students and Evansville citizens had protested, however, Dr. Parker was given his job back for the remainder of the term.

At Lyconing College, Williamsport, Pa., Dr. Clarence R. Athearn last March accepted appointment as Lycoming County chairman for the Progressive Party. Athearn was then asked to resign this position by the college president, Dr. John W. Long, and he did. Two months later Dr. Athearn was notified that his contract for the following year would not be renewed.

• • •

Three professors claiming to be victims of a political purge have been dismissed at University of Miami, in spite of protests by the student body of the Florida institution. They are Dr. Charles C. Davis, Dr. Leonard Cohen and Prof. Daniel D. Ashkenas. Their cases are now on appeal before the university board of trustees.

Prof. Lyndon K. McNair voluntarily resigned his post as Dean of the State Teachers College, Lyndon, Vt., after he had announced his support of the Progressive Party and had been denounced for it in Vermont newspaper editorials.

Censure of grade and high school teachers for political activity has been reported from Chicago, Buffalo and Tarpon Springs, Fla. In Chicago the city council's school committee set up a group to investigate charges of subversive teaching by a Senn High School civics instructor. Miss Emily Noack. Charges of "un Americanism" brought against Eleanor R. Dushane, a Buffalo, N. Y., East High School teacher, were carried to the State Supreme Court after a six months' controversy had involved students, parents and fellow teachers. For organizing a Wallace Committee in Tarpon Springs, Fla., George T. Frantzis was fired as Greek Parochial School principal.

The two preachers who have thus far been reported dismissed from their pulpits for political activity are the Rev. Richard H. Bready, Centenary Methodist Church, Cumberland, Md., and Rev. Isaiah J. Bonas, Universal Unitarian Church, Atlanta, Ga.

REPLY TO EARLE

Dear Editor:

In the August 11, 1948 issue of your paper, Mr. John Earle, of our city of Dixon, stated that the way to stop inflation was to cut wages, not raise them and, also, to move prices back to increase buying power. Mr. Earle stated that the self appointed union leaders had failed to explain to a union worker how much he lost during a strike.

I should like to answer Mr. John Earle who stated that Congressman Leo Allen, from the 15th district, had agreed with this method of saving the country from catastrophe.

I cannot believe that this method would help and that figures will prove that his story is a fallacy.

First of all, we all know strikes cost money. We don't have to have labor leaders ...ll us that, but we are at times forced to strike against some employers, who fail to recognize that this is a democracy and that workers are human beings, not slaves.

Second, I would like to meet a self appointed labor leader, if there is such. All the labor leaders I have ever known, came up the hard way and are in their position because the people they represent placed them there

When it comes to cuttting wages, let us review these figures which any one who reads something besides comic strips would be familiar.

For the year of 1947 only the following business and manufacturing groups received percentage return on net worth 0tsed on profits, first nine months of 1947—Food products 19.8%. Drugs 17%. Iron and Steel 11%. Electrical equipment 17.7%. Autos and equipment 20%, total manufacturing 16.4%. Now let us go further. The precentage of increase 1947 over 1945: Corporate profits 89.9% Farm income 35.6%. Wages and salaries 27.9%. Wage and salaries quite a bit lower aren't they?

In May, 1948 big steel moved some prices back, refused wage increases to their employees; which the United Steelworkers of America union CIO recognized their attempts to help stop inflation and pressed their wage negotiations no further, but what happened in July?

On July 16th, the steel industry raised prices an average of $9.34 per ton, and then granted a $.13 per hour wage increase.

In our communities Dixon and Sterling, in Congressman Allen's district, we have steel, both basic and fabricating who raised their prices along with the rest of the industry, but not their employees' wages. NO, they gave only taken increases when compared with their price increases. They get the same for their product, pay less for their labor cost, all in the 16th Congressional district.

I believe that Mr. John Earle's solution to stopping inflation proves nothing but a fallacy.

Sincerely,
William J. Lee,
President Local, 2086

TAX FACTS

By George Delahin, Executive Secretary Taxpayer's Federation of Illinois

Do you think that the price you pay for meat, groceries, bread, milk, clothes and other commodities you buy is too high?

The cost of government constitutes about 26% of commodity costs. A reduction in the cost of government will

Reduce prices
Increase purchasing power
Reduce the cost of living.

The statement was made before the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives in Washington by Arthur R. Kaiser, General Manager of the Tax Department of Sears, Roebuck & Co., testifying for the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

Stating that this is not a political issue but a question of the survival of our free republic, Mr. Kaiser pointed out that the American people are paying billions of dollars more for government than they are paying for food.

Taxation is essential to provide necessary governmental services. But tax dollars that are wasted are dollars that cannot be spent for national defense, to improve the schools, to fix holes in the street, or to surface roads, to buy new fire equipment, employ additional policemen or provide other essential services.

Lindsay Warren, Comptroller General of the United States, is the authority for the following hodge-podge of extravagant duplication, inefficiency and inconsistency.

75 different bureaus and agencies of the federal government that have an important connection with transportation....

At least 15 different agencies dealing with public housing....

14 different agencies dealing with forestry matters....

34 different agencies that can acquire land. 1/5th of the entire land area of the United States is already owned by the Federal government....

No less than 65 different agencies gathering statistics....

Upwards of 40 government corporations, with accumulated deficits of about $10½ billions, still going deeper into debt.

Waste, extravagance, inefficient methods, duplication of effort, are not peculiar to the federal government, although there they are on a grander scale.

It is predicted by Senator Byrd that the federal budget will be $10 billion higher by 1950. Where is the money coming from? "If all taxable income above $4,000 for each individual taxpayer were confiscated," Mr. Kaiser said, "it would produce only $7 billion more than is now being collected."—and that bill still would be $3 billion short, and would mean that no individual in this country could have more than $4,000 a year.

"If the budget cannot be balanced with substantial provision for amortization of the debt, and reduction of taxes cannot be made, at this time when the nation is enjoying the highest income and the greatest degree of prsperity ever known, it is absurd to contend that these necessary objectives can be attained in an era of recession or depression.

"There should be an abandonment of all activities no longer needed, rapid reduction in the number of government employees, and deferment of all capital expenditures not now urgent. Government expenditures should be confined to the 'bread-and-butter' items.

The 'sweets' should be cut out. This is the key to lower taxes, reduced debt, continuation of free enterprise and the preservation of our democratic processes."

HAY FEVER

We are now approaching the hay fever season, a fact which is well known to all sufferers from this disease Characteristically, the victim has many of the symptoms of a cold, only they are considerably exaggerated. They include sneezing, sniffling, running nose, and watery eyes.

Hay fever occurs when a person becomes sensitive to the pollen from various plants, weeds, and trees. Illinois is one of the states in which hay fever is unusually prevalent. As in most parts of the country, rag weed pollen is the chief offender.

The pollen consists of millions of microscopic grains which are carried in the ai. When the sensitive individual breathes the air carrying such pollen he has an attack of hay fever.

There are three ways in which this problem can be met. First, the individual can leave the vicinity during the period when the pollen is airborn. Second, he can have sensitivity tests run by his physician so as to determine which pollen is causing his trouble. Then the physician can desensitize him by a series of injections. The third method is to destroy the responsible weeds or plants.

Because rag weed is responsible for the majority of cases of hay fever, some places have begun experimental destruction programs. The best known is the one conducted in New York City. Instead of resorting to weed cutting which has not been too successful in the past, chemical agents were tried. One of the reasons rag weed cutting was not effective was that some individuals did not cut the weeds on their property. A few uncut weeds would be enough to cause symptoms in a sensitive individual.

In the New York program 2, 4-D was used as the weed killer. A city wide program was begun, and 2, 4-D was sprayed over thousands of acres of the city last year. As a result rag weed was almost completely eliminated. It is thought that if this program is continued far a few years the weed will be completely destroyed.

Becaue the grains of the pollen are so small, they can be carried many miles by the wind. To eliminate the rag weed problem will require simultaneous programs by many adjacent communities in the areas where it is prevalent.

To the poor hay fever sufferers who rate little more sympathy than the persons with a common cold, news of rag weed eliminating programs will be quite welcome.

Bitter Reprieve

By Drexel Drake — Copyright, 1948, by Charles H. Hoff; Distributed by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Sterling returns to his desk at the bank. Miss Wilson gives him the newspapers from "Mr. Davenport." Sterling throws them in a drawer. He spies on a stranger who investigates his desk while he's supposedly out to lunch. He is aghast when the man goes through the newspapers. But the necklace isn't in them!

• • •

LATE Tuesday morning Lieutenant Talent got his first report relating to Miriam Sterling's $100 bills. From a bank it was learned that 15 of the bills had been passed through pari-mutuel windows at Belmont on Monday.

Talent considered the information highly illuminating. It revealed that he was dealing with a more than ordinarily clever crook: one who had been quick to recognize in the pari-mutuel windows, a novelty just barely introduced to New York race-goers, a strategic facility for converting possibly "hot" currency of large denomination into well-circulated unidentifiable bills.

Talent got Detective Ripley into his office. It was finally time to take someone into his confidence in the secret he had so carefully guarded. Ripley's eyes widened when he began to sniff the nature of the assignment.

"If you get out there right away," Talent said, "you'll have a couple hours to line up some of the sellers for help. Might as well pass up the $2 and $5 windows."

"It would be the top windows, Lieut," Ripley said.

"You'll be on your own, Gus. I'm playing it that way because I don't want a leak. But remember this. If you do run onto anybody out there, it probably will be small fry . . . we'll want him in shape to answer questions."

• • •

DETECTIVE RIPLEY, appearing to be interested in the folded race program in his hand, caught a barely perceptible signal from [illegible] clubhouse [illegible] windows. It was just a quickly jerked thumb, aimed at a man turning away from the window. The man was small, dark-skinned. He wore a checkered sports coat and the flaring collar of his pale yellow shirt was open at the scrawny throat. A soft hat was set back jauntily on his small head, and his beady eyes were squinting at several small purplish pieces of light cardboard as he walked away from the window. He had stuffed them carefully into the breast pocket of his coat by the time he passed Ripley.

Ripley followed the small man indifferently. The latter stepped outside the clubhouse, stood gazing across the evenly cropped lawn toward the paddock. Ripley watched from a columned doorway, leaning against the wall. The electrifying announcement came from the loudspeaker . . . the race had started. The small man seemed peculiarly disinterested for one who had just come away from the $100 seller's window with a handful of tickets. He lit a cigaret with deliberation, strolled slowly back into the clubhouse, now almost wholly deserted.

The small man walked leisurely, took up a position against a post not far from the row of cashiers' windows. Ripley made an unobserved half circle. Excited men were bursting back into the clubhouse, sprinting toward the cashiers' windows. The small man jerked a question at one of them. Without stopping, the runner shouted back three numbers with unconcealed jubilation.

The expression on the small man's face did not change but he darted with sudden vigor to a window, marked for the redemption of winning $100 tickets. From a protected distance, Ripley saw him come away, clutching a fist-full of currency. The man riffled through it quickly, folded the bills and stuffed them deeply into his [illegible] pocket.

IT lacked two minutes of the time set for the next race when Ripley saw the small man get into line before the $100 seller's window toward the far end of the grandstand. There were only three bettors ahead of him.

When it was the small man's turn at the window, Ripley was beside him, only a rail between them. The small man dove his left hand into the side pocket of his sports coat. The hand came out holding a sheaf of smooth, bristling new currency.

The man's pinched face was bent against the bars of the window. His left hand was edging the crisp bills toward the small opening below the bars. Ripley saw a prominently engraved "100" on a corner of the top bill.

"Five number . . ." the small man began, speaking through the bars. That was as far as he got with his intended request. He winced and turned when he felt strong fingers clamped about the wrist of his left hand.

Ripley jerked him through the exit opening in the rail. The small man began a significant movement with his right hand but he arrested it when Ripley turned back a coat lapel.

"Oh, a copper!"

"Let's go over here and talk," Ripley said.

"I gotta get my bet down . . . I got only a minute."

"Let's talk first." Ripley insisted. He piloted his angry captive to an open space beyond the tier of windows. Except for brief attention by two or three men who observed Ripley's opening overture, no curiosity had been aroused.

Ripley looked at the money in the hand he still held gripped.

"Where'd all that come from?" he demanded.

"Is it against the law to have money?" the man snarled. "Geeze, you're holding me up. I gotta lay it on Confiado on the nose. It's hot."

"Nice new centuries," Ripley said. He grinned when he noted the serial number on the top bill. He had hardly needed that confirming evidence.

James Hoon Takes Maywood Girl As Bride in Oak Park Chapel

A wedding of interest to Dixon friends took place in July at Pilgrim Memorial Chapel, Oak Park, when Miss Lois Anne Knudsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Knudsen of Maywood became the bride of James Arthur Hoon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoon of Dixon. Rev. Wesley J. Smouzer, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran church of Maywood heard the nuptial vows at 3 p. m. before a large gathering of relatives and friends.

White gladiolus and tall white tapers decorated the chapel for the double ring ceremony. Norman Thomas sang "Because", "I Love You Truly" and the "Lord's Prayer", He was accompanied by Mrs. Wesley Smouzer at the organ.

The attractive bride was given in marriage by her father and she and the groom were attired in suits of identical material, pearl gray gabardine. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and white stephanotis centered with a white orchid with white ribbon streamers. Her only jewelry was a jeweled clasp, a gift of the groom, and she carried a lace edged handkerchief which her mother carried as a bride.

Dorothy Mennecke of Maywood, life long friend of the bride as maid of honor preceded her down the aisle. She wore a pale blue gabardine suit with brown accessories and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and roses. Both the bride and the maid of honor wore flowers in their hair similar to those in their bouquets.

Dean Kness of Dixon was best man and ushers were Robert and William Shattuck, cousin of the bride, and Fred Hoon, brother of the groom.

The bride's mother watched the ceremony wearing an admiral blue suit with brown accessories. Her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses and carnations. Mrs. Hoon mother of the groom, wore a navy blue sheer dress with shell pink accessories. She too had a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. August Mathis of Hoppole, grandmother of the groom, wore a brown sheer suit with cream accessories and had a corsage of pink roses.

Reception at House

A reception at the Oak Park Community House followed the ceremony. The guests were received before the fireplace which was attractively decorated with white glads. During the reception Miss Betsy Hoon, sister of the groom, played several piano selections. The bridal cake and dainty refreshments were served in the dining room by the Oak Park caterers. Miss Nancy Hoon was in charge of the guest book. Following the reception a wedding dinner was served at the Edgewater Beach Hotel. Later the bridal couple left for a week's trip to Macinac Island.

They are now at home at 518 Third street, South West in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where Jim is employed at a publishing company.

Lois Anne attended Proviso high school and graduated from Bradley university in Peoria on June 14. She was a member of Chi Omega sorority, president of the Home Economics club, Alpha Delta Honorary Journalism fraternity and several other organizations.

Lois and Jim met while he was attending Bradley university after having spent three years in the air corps. While in the service he attended the Citadel at Charleston, South Carolina and was later stationed in France. Jim is a third generation Dixonite and graduated from Dixon high school with the class of '42. He was very active in Demolays before entering the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Knudsen gave the rehearsal dinner Friday evening and Lois was the recipient of numerous bridal showers before her wedding.

PENNSYLVANIA GUESTS

Dr. and Mrs Luther King of Pennsylvania are visiting her mother, Mrs. Rowena Powell. They motored to Madison, Wis., yesterday and on Wednesday evening, Dr. and Mrs. King entertained friends at dinner.

G.A.R. LADIES MEETING

Dixon Circle No. 73 Ladies of the G.A.R. will hold a regular meeting on Monday evening at 7:30 in the G.A.R. hall.

Lee Co. Couple Wed in Michigan

Miss Arlene Grove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Grove of Compton, and William Town, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Town of Paw Paw, were united in marriage in the Methodist church in Kalamazoo, Mich., at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, August 7th.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by Reverend Zerbe, pastor of the church.

The bride was very charming in a light pink brocaded satin street-length dress, and wore a pink feather hat, and silver slippers, and carried a white prayer book with an orchid on it.

The couple were attended by Mrs. James Peterson, a college friend of the bride, as matron of honor, and W. J. Moore, a close friend of the groom, as best man.

The matron of honor wore a grey street-length dress and carried a bouquet of baby orchids.

After the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at the "Coach and Four" for the bridal party. A two-tiered wedding cake formed the centerpiece for the table.

The bride and groom left on a wedding trip through Michigan and points in Canada. When they return they will be at home to their friends in Paw Paw, in the new trailer they recently purchased.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Illinois, and for the past two years has taught Home Ec in the Paw Paw high school.

Mr. Town graduated from the class of '43 from the Paw Paw high school and is a veteran of World War II, having served in the Marine Corps.

ARTICLE OF INTEREST

In an article appearing in a recent issue of Holiday the Mayor of Honolulu, John H. Wilson was told about and praised. This article should prove of interest to Dixonites as Mayor Wilson has been a guest in Dixon homes.

Mr. Wilson who was born in Honolulu has Polynecian blood and belongs to the very people who have elected him mayor so often. He has served three times at various periods, before this present tearm and has been mayor for more years in all than any other man in the history of Honolulu. All Hawaiians know and love "Johnny" the only mayor in 28 years who can speak fluent Hawaiian. These and other qualities displayed the ability of John H. Wilson as mayor of Honolulu.

Dress Tricks Minimize Hips

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

A woman who relies more upon skirts for disguise of mature hips should give other dress tricks a whirl for variety's sake.

As effective quite often as wearing full-gathered or belling-out skirts for hip disguise are clothes with light-colored tops, dark bottoms. Sleek and slimming effects may be achieved by wearing a light-colored blouse or jacket with a bright fabric surface, a skirt of straighter lines made of a dark, dull-surfaced material.

A woman's plot to minimize hips with correctly chosen clothes can be abetted by her selection of the right kind of hat. A sizeable hat, for example, which helps to build out the top of a figure will make hips look less heavy.

The same principle of minimizing the base of the figure by adding width above it applies to a hair-do. The woman with a hip spread which she wants to play down should try curving out her hair at the sides.

Newly-Weds Will Live Near Walnut

Miss Ila Jean Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wright of Harmon, and Randall Behrens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Behrens of Walnut, were united in marriage at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, Rev. E. V. Hallock reading the double ring ceremony at the parsonage of the Christian church.

The bride wore a light blue suit of gabardine, white accessories and an orchid corsage. Her attendant was her sister, Miss Gaylia Wright of Princeton, who wore a brown suit with white accessories and an orchid corsage. Clinton Behrens of Walnut, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

A reception for the immediate families was held at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wallace, near Wyanet. Refreshments were served from a pink and white decorated table, which was centered with a tiered wedding cake. The couple left on a short wedding trip and will be at home on the Behrens farm north of Walnut.

Flagpole Is Moved—

The county's much-discussed flag pole has been moved—to a spot on the center walk north of the courthouse, where it will rest until the board decides finally on a site Sept. 14.

Three Fugitives Caught—

Three of four Negro patients who escaped from one of the ward buildings at the Dixon state hospital last evening about 5 o'clock were reported to be wandering about in the Illinois Central railroad yards north of Seventh street. Police Chief Harry Fischer took them in custody and brought them to the police station where they were delivered to employes of the institution and returned.

Bids on Road Work Opened—

The Illinois Division of Highways yesterday opened bids on improvement projects in 29 counties estimated to cost $4,128,658. The projects included 10 miles of resurfacing on state routes 26 and 92 and 1.79 miles on route 54 in Lee and Bureau counties. The apparent low bidder is the Arrow Petroleum Co. of Forrest Park, its figure being $391,373.

Louis Herrick Sought—

Postmaster Rae Arnould is in receipt of a communication from the East River Savings bank of New York City, in which he is requested to attempt to locate an individual who formerly resided in Dixon, and who apparently is to receive a bequest. The bank is seeking Louis Henry Herrick, who was the son of the late George and Nettie Herrick and who was born in Dixon. The letter adds that Herrick's last known address was 309 West 97th street, New York, N. Y.

Arch Is Delapidated—

Dixon's memorial arch, once the pride of the city, is rapidly approaching a dilapidated appearance. Broken wiring hangs from the archway, pieces of the framework are lying at the base and some of the neon tubing which adorned the arch last holiday season is still in place but sections have been broken. The general appearance of the structure which gained coast-to-coast publicity for Dixon, indicates that a repair program or dismantling of the structure would be most timely.

Dewey Plans Heavy Campaign Against Dems

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 14—(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was reported today to be planning an intensive campaign in states where Republican senatorial candidates face stiff Democratic opposition.

An associate of the GOP presidential nominee told a reporter that Dewey would "expend every effort" to keep the Republicans in control of the Senate. They now outnumber the Democrats 51 to 45.

He added that Dewey strtegists also were planning a vigorous campaign generally in the hope of piling up what he called "a big prestige building" majority for the New York governor.

Close senatorial races are in prospect in several states, including Minnesota, Wyoming, Kentucky and West Virginia.

Dewey and his top advisors have conferred for the last two days and into the evenings on campaign strategy and still are discussing it.

Lee County Youths in U. I. Summer Finalists

Among nearly 1,200 students completing requirements for degrees from the University of Illinois summer sessions, are the following from Lee county:

holders in the company who currently receive 6 per cent on $10 stock, the average of which for the past 25 years has amounted to 5.8 per cent.

Forest T. Kable, vice president in charge of sales, stated that the company maintains offices in New York City, Chicago and recently has opened an office in Kansas City. The publication Kablegram, he stated, was the oldest house organ issued in the United States and has been published continuously for the past 36 years. The publications turned out at the Kable plant consist of trade journals, fraternal magazines, general magazines of which Sports Afield is the largest, and catalogues.

Labor Relations

Harold D. Ross, vice president in charge of labor relations, stated that the success of the Kable organization was due to the recognition of the right of others and respect of the problems of the employes. Six unions, he stated, representing the different crafts in the printing industry, are operating in the plant.

Gerald R. Powers in charge of the public relations department cited five basic fundamentals followed in the Kable plant: fair return for services rendered; security, good working conditions and good working companions, leadership and opportunities to advance.

Robert F. Kable, vice president spoke of the future of the publishing company. He stated that the company was a fine example of the American way of life and in its future, preferred to be a good neighbor to the Mt. Morris community rather than a godfather.

Barney Thompson of Rockford, dean of the editors of northern Illinois paid a fine tribute to the Kable Co., and attributed the fine success of the publishing firm to the close kinship of the two brothers who founded the firm. Human nature, he said, planted the industrial kinship of the twin brothers which unfolded the successful Kable industry.

Representatives of the press from this section attending the luncheon were: Robert Shaw and E. L. Fulmer, Dixon Evening Telegraph; Margaret Engelking, Lanark Gazette; Elizabeth Yager, Freeport Journal Standard; Dave Evans, Mt. Morris Index; Ernie Landers, Ogle County Republican; Barney Thompson, Robert F. Ragan, Rockford Register Gazette; Bill Walsh, Wallace Eckzerg, Rochelle Leader and Arthur Larch and J. M. Fowler, Ogle County Reporter.

To give her further protection Mundt said, the committee is asking the Immigration Bureau not to issue an exit visa for her until further notice and to cancel any visa that might be outstanding.

Without such a visa, Mrs Kosenkina cannot legally leave the country.

The committee's action coincided with a state department promise of asylum in this country for Mrs Kosenkina and another Russian teacher, Michael Ivanovitch Samarine, also under committee subpoena.

The committee took a week-end breather to prepare for several more sessions next week. The identity of witnesses to be heard was not disclosed.

Conservation Planning Meeting Held in China Township During Week

The first soil conservation planning meeting of the fall planning season was held this week with A. W. Sperling and his operator at a farm operated by Floyd Miller in China township, Ray Lane, U. S. soil conservationist, revealed today. Sperling, Miller, Harry E. Hillison, Donald Hillison and Austin "Doc" Butler met with Lane at the farm operated by Miller and spent several hours discussing farm conservation planning. After the discussion session, Sperling and the operators went over the Sperling farms in China township and completed a farm conservation plan for each farm. Since Butler operates a farm in Marion township, a conservation plan could not be developed for his farm. However, just as soon as the district addition is completed, a plan will be developed on the farm operated by Butler.

'Citizens Radios' To Be Put on Market Soon

Washington, Aug. 14—(AP)—"Citizens Radios"—camera-sized private broadcasting stations—will be on the market soon.

Patterned after the wartime "walkie-talkie", the two-way radio is expected to reach quantity production in the near future, and the Federal Communications Commission said yesterday it will begin licensing citizen-broadcasters shortly.

with the twins. His wife and daughter sat in the rear.

"The wife of the owner of the apartment house chatted with us before we left. She knows that I used no force.

Everything Was Quiet

"We got home at about 3 a. m. driving pretty slowly. During the whole week that followed, everything was quiet."

On Aug. 7 the news of the struggle between the Red and White Russians for custody of the Samarines and Mrs Kosenkina was made public. That day one of the countess' agents contacted Schibanoff and suggested his guests be hidden somewhere else because they were in danger.

Schibanoff said the countess came to his farm Sunday—the next day—with three men. He said he thought they were FBI agents.

Belongs to No Factions

"The farmer, a naturalized American citizen, said he is not a member of any White Russian underground or political group. He said he only helped the countess because he was impressed with her refugee work.

"I want to deny that that I used any force when I took Sarmine and his family to Freenold.

"I also deny that we have any kind of armed group that protected the lives of Samarine and his family. They just spent some time at my house and the house of another family; just we two knew about it.

"I love this country. I like our present form of government. I have never violated the law. That's the way I raised my five children."

Schibanoff said when he was 17 he was a member of a "Russian revolutionary group but at the age of 21 I decided to overthrow all Soviet politics and come to America."

That was after imprisonment, he said, with another revolutionary who later became Russia's boss—Premier Stalin.

Russian teachers from the clutches of Communism right in New York City? That's waving the red flag in our faces.

Lulls Are Probable

We may see lulls in the Bolshevist aggression. There are likely to be truces in various places from time to time. The "cold war" is like any other war in that its heavy offensives are followed by pauses for consolidation.

However, the indications are that Moscow has no intention of stopping its drive so long as the Soviet has the strength to carry on. The objective for continental Europe is the English Channel, and the only thing that will halt the Russians will be western Europe's recovery of sufficient strength to hold them.

The Reds have been slowed down and are being held fairly well along their line through central Europe. There is a fair chance that western Europe will get on its feet in time to prevent the Communists from taking possession of more governments by strong-arm methods. If that happens the cold war in Europe will settle down to one of attrition—of Communist infiltration, espionage and sabotage. But the conflict will continue.

Meantime we may expect a rapid increase in the fierceness of the conflict in the Orient. Indeed, the Far East may well become the main theatre of the struggle between democracy and Communism.

In any event we shouldn't forget for a minute that while we may get truces, the warfare will go on and on until Communism either demonstrates that it is what the world wants, or hangs itself. Certainly the long suffering democracies are giving Bolshevism lots of rope for the job.

WIREMEN AT SUBLETTE TOMORROW

Walton Foe For Knacks In Tiff Here

Reynolds Wire will have the best wishes of Knacks tomorrow when Midwest league teams square off in the tight stretch drive.

Knacks will appear at home, facing Walton at Reynolds field here, but they'll have one ear cocked for sounds from Sublette, where the Wiremen tangle with Sublette, currently tied with Knacks for league leadership.

The Wiremen, currently ensconsed in the league's third spot, still have definite pennant aspirations, and victory for them tomorrow at Sublette would advance their own cause as well as that of Knacks.

Sublette and Knacks are tied for first place with identical 9-3 records. Right behind them is the Reynolds crew with an 8 4 record to date.

Sublette will be endeavoring to come back from a 7-3 loss to Knacks last Sunday at Reynolds field, which may have also cost them the services of their regular catcher, Jack Boyle, who was injured in a collision while chasing a pop foul during Knacks big seventh inning.

The Wiremen were successful last Sunday at Amboy, coming home with a 4-1 triumph.

Walton, Knacks opponent tomorrow, has a 4-7 record for the season.

Meanwhile, in the Big Six wheel, Polo's cross-town rivalry will bloom there tomorrow with Hoffman's and Polo scheduled to meet. Deer Grove invades the Airport fair of Bend's Braves, Rock Falls will entertain Harmon, and the State Hospital team journeys to Onio.

The Dixon Junior Legion team will be idle tomorrow. The game scheduled with Amboy was played Thursday. In other Legion action, Fulton goes to Mt. Morris, Albany is at Freeport, Hanover plays at Savanna, Amboy visits Harmon, and Rochelle goes to Paw Paw.

Ruth Still in There Swinging

New York, Aug 14—(AP) —The Babe is still in there slugging.

Feverish and hardly able to take food, baseball's greatest hitter continued to hold his own today although his condition was reported unimproved. A hospital bulletin said last night that he "rested well during the evening and awakened to speak with his wife."

He managed his famous Babe Ruth grin and a cheerful word for other family members and intimate friends permitted to visit him yesterday.

Late in the afternoon, the Memorial hospital center for cancer and allied diseases said his temperature was "slightly lower" than at the same time the previous day.

"He is taking nourishment with difficulty," the hospital said. "His condition is otherwise unchanged."

Denver, Aug 14—(AP)—"Keep your chin up." Babe Ruth wrote that last winter on an autographed baseball he gave to a critically ill boy in a Florida hospital.

Today from a Denver hospital, the boy as close to death as the famous Bambino—sent a telegram: "Just heard of your illness. Keep your chin up. God bless you."

The sender was 13 year old Ronnie Pitcher of Tampa, Fla., who has been suffering from paralysis and other complications for many months.

St. Paul's Blanks Tabernacle, 5-0

With Wade hurling two-hit ball, St. Paul's of Dixon blanked Tabernacle 5-0 in Church Softball league play at Reynolds Field last night.

St. Paul's picked up two runs, enough to win, in the second inning, made it 5-0 in the fourth and added two more in the sixth frame.

Bethel and Brethren, which played to an 11 11 tie in a six-inning game, will play off their game Aug. 19.

All Star Squads To Tangle Today

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 14—(AP)—The closest possible answer to the long-wrangled question of whether, given perfect personnel, the T-formation or single wingback is football's best attack, may evolve in the College All-Star camp at Dyche stadium today.

The nation's top college performers in both systems will collide in a regulation game designed by Head Coach Frank Leahy as a dress rehearsal for the twin-sledged offensive planned against the Chicago Cardinals at Soldier Field next Friday night.

There is the making, too, of a showdown between individual Notre Dame and Michigan stars with seven Irish players, headed by brilliant Quarterback Johnny Lujack, in the starting "T" lineup and five single wing starters from the great 1947 Wolverine club.

It would be hardly fair, though, to say it would be even a pocket sized version of what last year might have been the football game of the century, Michigan vs Notre Dame.

For one thing, Michigan's All-America halfback Bob Chapius is benched with a rib injury. Also, whirling dervish Jack Weisenburger, the fullback who handled the ball on 60 per cent of Michigan's magical spinners, passed up an All-Star bid to continue professional baseball.

RESERVE 62 SEATS

Late this morning the number of reservations for the coach-player get-acquainted picnic at Lowell park Aug. 23 stood at 62 here. Deadline was this noon. However, football candidates who were unable to phone reservations before the deadline still may beat the gun by calling Paul Potts as soon as possible.

All Stars Get Tough Test Here Sunday

The United All-Stars face one of their toughest assignments of the season under the Airport lights tomorrow night when they come up against Freeman's of Beloit, Wis., in the feature game.

The Beloit club boasts one of Wisconsin's outstanding teams, and the presence of Otis Kells, who formerly hurled with Walsh Bungalow, they're doubly tough.

Kells is rated as one of the best pitchers in Wisconsin and his record tends to bear that out. Included in his past performances are 40 no-hitters.

The Cigarmen, who bested the Wisconsin team in its last appearance here, 2-0, will count on Charley Van Drew to handle the mound assignment if he's in good shape.

In case Van Drew, who has been ill recently, is not able to pitch the Cigarmen are confident of coming up with a suitable replacement for him.

In the first game on the card Grand Detour Merchants will square off against Freeman's of Dixon.

Steers and Wiremen in Arc Wins

A single by Red Flanagan and a double by "Flash" Fordham pushed across two runs in the seventh inning last night and gave the Wiremen an 8-7 victory over Freeman's in Softball league play.

In the other game on the card Barrick Steers dropped the VFW, 12-8, despite the fact that the Steers committed six errors.

The Reynolds-Freeman's struggle was a pitcher's duel featuring Fordham and Clayton until the fourth inning, when the Wiremen broke the scoreless tie with three runs.

But this only spurred Freeman's to greater efforts, and they rocked Fordham for four tallies in the fifth and picked up two more in the sixth. Their final run was added in the seventh.

Reynolds scored three times in the sixth frame on five hits, with Fordham's homer and doubles by Spinden and Flanagan as the juicier items in the attack.

Barricks piled up an eight run lead before VFW started to bother "Corky" Kernan in the second contest. A double by Rheo Riopelle, a single by Hank Henry and a pair of walks added up to three runs in the first frame to get the Steers off on the right foot.

They closed out with two in the fourth, three in the fifth and four in the seventh inning.

VFW scored twice in the fifth, twice again in the sixth and picked up four runs in the seventh.

A's Falter, Tribe Back In AL Lead

(By The Associated Press)

Old Leroy (Satchel) Paige, who waited 25 years for his chance in the major leagues, is making up for lost time in a hurry.

The famous Satchel of Negro baseball fame gave 51,013 Chicago citizens a sample of his old time brilliance last night when he shut out the White Sox 5-0 to pitch the Cleveland Indians ack into first place in the torrid American league pennant race.

The Trie victory, coupled with the New York Yankees 8-5 victory over th Philadelphia Athletics, pushed the Indians ack into first place v half a game over Connie Mack's A's. The Indians have won 64 and lost 42 for .604, and the A's have now won 65 and lost 45 for .596.

The Athletics dropped a heart breaker. They were ahead 5-0 as Lefty Lou Brissie went into the last half of the eighth with a splendid three hitter. The crowd of 60,745 began to stir when Brissie aiming for his first big league shutout, walked two and gave up a hit to Tommy Henrich to load the bases with none out. Out went Brissie and in came Charley Harris.

THE LOOK!

Chicago, Aug. 14—(AP)—Three American League umpires appeared in the look—for umpires—at last night's Chicago White Sox-Cleveland Indians game.

Art Passarella, behind the plate, wore a pencil-striped blue business coat and a pair of tan slacks. John Stevens had on a blue business suit, and Eddie Rommel was in a light blue sport coat and dark trousers. All wore Sox caps.

Their regulation uniforms went to Cleveland instead of Chicago by mistake.

Harris walked Joe Dimaggio to force in one run. A pinch single by Yogi Berra added two more, and another walk again loaded the bases. Alex Kellner, a left-hander recently recalled from Savannah, relieved Harris and Phil Rizzuto greeted him with a two-run single to tie the score. A walk to Gus Niarhos crammed the bases for the third time. With Carl Scheib on the mound, Pete Suder fumbled Charlie Keller's grounder to allow Bobby Brown to score the tie-breaking run. George Stirnkeiss' single sent over the sevent and eighth runs of the inning.

Frank Hiller, who relieved starter Bob Porterfield in the eighth, was credited with the triumph.

Pitching no-hit ball for 6⅓ innings, Lefty Mel Parnell hurled the third place Boston Red Sox to a 6-2 victory over the Senators in Washington to push the Sox up within a game and a half of first place.

Young Ned Garver outpitched the mighty Hal Newhouser as the St. Louis Browns defeated the Tigers, 4-1, to move past Washington into sixth place. The Browns shelled Newhouser from the mound in the fifth, scoring four runs.

The Brooklyn Dodgers climbed within three games of the National league leading Boston Braves by turning back the Redskins 6-3 in Boston. The Dodgers' triumph, coupled with Pittsburgh's 5-4 victory over St. Louis, gave the Dodgers undisputed possession of second place. They boast a full-game advantage over the Redbirds.

The Pirates rallied for four runs in the last half of the eighth to overcome a 4-1 deficit. Danny Murtaugh climaxed the six-hit rally with his game-winning single.

U. S. Is Olympic Cage Champion

London, Aug. 14 (AP)—The American Olympic basketball team claimed the gold medal today for a second sucressive U. S. triumph in the cage sport.

The towering Yanks swamped the nervous cinderella kids of France last night, 65-21, handling the ball brilliantly against the scared, fumbling French boys who simply were too nervous to make a fight of it after the opening minutes.

The Americans wound up undefeated in the tournament, winning eight games.

In the 1936 games at Berlin, the United States won the cage title by beating Canada in a windy outdoor finale. The Canadians finished ninth this time.

American, French and Brazilian players—who were third get gold, silver and bronze medals at closing ceremonies in Wembley stadium this afternoon.

The Olympic victory was a retirement present for Omar "Bud" Browning, head coach, who at 33 becomes athletic director of the Phillips Petroleum company. He will hand over Phillips Oilers coaching duties to ace guard, Jesse Renick, now leaving the court for the bench.

"This is it for me," Bud cried to his old friend after the game. "It's wonderful."

The team will sail for home from Le Harve after four or five days in Paris where they don't intend to play basketball.

MR. BUSHER RISKS HIS UNBEATEN SLATE TODAY

Chicago, Aug. 14—(AP) Mr. Busher, leading contender for the national two-year-old championship, today risks his unbeaten record against 10 other swift juveniles in the $75,650 Washington Park Futurity.

Mr. Busher, by winning his fourth important start of his career, can almost triple the record $50,000 paid for him as a weanling in 1946 by Mrs. Elizabeth Graham, owner of Maine Chance farm.

The six furlong futurity sprint offers a possible $60,750 winner's take.

Mr. Busher's most formidable challengers will be F. W. Hooper's Ocean Drive, who shares high weight of 122 pounds with Mr. Busher, and Olympia: John Marsch's Ol' Skipper; J. A. Minard Jr.'s Johns Joy; Mrs. Emil Denemark's Provocative and Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Admiral Lea.

Bob Chesnes went all the way to register his eighth victory against three defeats. Stan Musial banged four hits in five times at bat for the Cards. It was Pittsburgh's seventh straight over the Cards and sent them into fourth place, a full game in front of the New York Giants.

Scoring 10 runs in the first inning as 14 men went to bat against Ray Poat, Alex Konikowski and Swede Hansen, the Philadelphia Phils went on to outsling the Giants 12-7 to dump the New York Nationals into the second division. Richie Ashburn and Dick Sisler each hit safely twice in the first inning.

Cubs Win; Paige Shuts Out Sox 5-0

Chicago, Aug. 14—(AP)—Manager Ted Lyons had his car stolen and his cellar-dwelling White Sox lost another ball game last night, but smiles were bright at Comiskey park today in the wake of a sellout crowd of 51,013 lured by Cleveland's famed Negro pitcher, Satchel Paige.

The biggest Pale Hose throng since Sept. 3, 1945, when the White Sox and Detroit played before a Labor day twin bill crowd of 53,955, jammed Comiskey ball lot to see Paige scatter five Sox singles in Cleveland's 5-0 triumph.

The Sox today have another go at the Tribe which sneaked back into first place in the sizzling American league pennant race. It's a matinee affairs, pitting Chicago's Al Gettel (5-8) against Cleveland's Steve Gromek (6-2).

• • •

Chicago's Cubs, who last night launched a battle with seventh-place Cincinnati for the National league cellar with a 10-4 win over the Redlegs, were idle today. Tomorrow the Bruins, now in the basement by only two and a half games, resume hostilities at Cincinnati with a doubleheader.

Paige was in rare form as he returned to the scene of many of his former triumphs when he played Negro ball. The Sox only got one runner as far as third base. And that was in the ninth when Luke Appling singled and Pat Seerey followed with Chicago's fifth blow, sending Appling to third.

• • •

Meanwhile, the Indians maced Randy Gumpert and Glen Moulder for nine hits to score their ninth decision over Chicago in 11 games this season. The Tribe touched Gumpert for its first marker in the fifth as Larry Doby tripled and scored on Jim Hegan's fly.

Another Indian tally came in the eighth on Ken Keltner's single, Hegan's sacrifice and Dale Mitchell's single. Singles by Lou Boudreau and Doby, combined with two Sox miscues, shoved across three more runs in the ninth.

The Cubs teed off on five Cincinnati pitchers, including Ewell Blackwell, for their triumph. Johnny Schmitz held the Reds to seven hits in notching his 12th win against 10 losses.

Eddie Waitkus paced the Cubs 15-hit attack with four hits, including three doubles, but Roy Smalley batted in four Cub tallies. Hank Schenz of the Bruins got his first major league homer in Chicago's five-run blast in the sixth.

AMBOYITE PROMINENT IN ROX COURT FIGHT

A former well known young Lee county lawyer, Attorney Robert "Bob" Leake of Amboy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leake, now practicing in Rockford, yesterday averted the sale of the equipment of the Rockford Rox professional baseball team by securing an injunction halting the sale in the Winnebago county Circuit court.

The physical properties of the team were saved through the injunction proceedings which were granted by Judge William R. Dusher which was to have been held today and it is expected that the Rox will play the regularly scheduled home stand with the league-leading Clinton, Iowa, Cubs opening Sunday night.

Move Zale Fight; Ring War Standoff

New York, Aug 14—(AP)—The first skirmish of New York's boxing war resulted in a standoff.

First the ambitious Tournament of Champions lost a round when they had to move the Tony Zale-Marcel Cerdan middleweight title fight to Jersey City after failing to get approval for a Sept. 25 date at Ebbets field.

Then they won a strategic advantage by advancing their show to Sept. 21, the day before Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century Sporting club will present Lightweight King Ike Williams and Jesse Flores at the Yankee Stadium.

Promoter Andy Niederreiter of the Tournament of Champions took his attractive international match across the river to Roosevelt stadium after a private conference with Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York state athletic commission.

"Eagan mentioned an October date," said Niederreiter, "but we were not interested. I told him Sept. 23 was our only possible date at Brooklyn. Eagan consulted Sol Strauss (acting promoter of the Twentieth Century) about changing his date to avoid a conflict but Strauss said his plans were set."

As for the commission, Eagan pointed out that no formal application for a club boxing license ever had been filed on behalf of the Tournament of Champions which had made only a "query" about running at Brooklyn, Sept. 23.

Niederreiter announced a $50 top for ringside seats and predicted a gate of $400,000 in the ball park that can accommodate 49,000 fans.

Zale's slice will be a $120,000 guarantee with a privilege of 40 per cent. Cerdan, the popular French challenger, will get 17½ per cent.

The real fun will come if it should rain Sept. 21. Then both promoters will be running major shows the same night, an unprecedented situation.

SEMI-PROS MEET

Elgin, Ill., Aug. 14—(AP)—The Elgin athletic club and the Logansport, Ind., Eagles, today opened a best two-out-of-three series in the Illinois-Indiana playoff for a berth in the national semi-pro baseball championship at Wichita, Kan.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

BATTING—Eli Mattes, CUBS: Smacked three doubles and a single to lead the Cubs to a 10-4 victory over Ewell Blackwell and the Cincinnati Reds.

PITCHING—SATCHEL PAIGE, INDIANS: Scattered five singles in pitching Cleveland to a 5-0 shutout over the Chicago White Sox. He struck out one and did not issue a base on balls.

ALL-AMERICAN GIRLS BASEBALL LEAGUE SCORES FRIDAY

LION TRY DONKEY GAME TUESDAY

The replay of the hilarious donkey ball presentation staged early in the summer is on tap at the Airport Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

The game is sponsored by the Lions club and the Softball league, with the Lions turning funds realized over to their fund for the purchase of a book projector and microfilm for the projector.

The Lions will put a team on the field for the donkey ball feature, but Lion bigwigs are fearful they may have to use exceptional persuasion to get some of their stalwarts into uniform for this tussle. Some of the boys sported bruises and angry muscles for days after the last date with the donkeys.

The second half of the double-barrelled entertainment bill will feature the United All Stars in a game against Milledgeville. The Cigarmen triumphed over Milledgeville earlier this week there, with "Corky" Kernan pitching the All Stars to a 5-1 victory.

CHANGE REQUIREMENTS IN SOFTBALL BAT RACE

The number of times at bat necessary to become eligible for the Airport batting trophy has been changed from 25 to 30, including bases on balls, it was announced this morning.

The change was made because of numerous requests by managers of the softball teams.

This will make more than half of the players active in the league eligible for batting trophy consideration.

PICK RENDEZVOUS FOR WIREMEN AND BRAVES

Reynolds Wire players are to meet at Riopelle Brothers at 1 p. m. tomorrow before going to Sublette for their Midwest league game there.

Bend's Braves players were requested by Manager "Speed" Saunders to meet at the Airport at 1 p. m. sharp tomorrow.

WOOSUNG WINS

Woosung Regulars softball team defeated the Polo Evangelical church team at Polo last night, 28-19. Woosung will play Dixon Moose at Woosung tomorrow at 2:30 p. m.
